Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from A Rebel Newspaper s War Story: Being a Narrative of the War History of the Memphis Appeal On the morning of Friday, June 6, 1862, while the gunboat fight was raging hotly in front of the city, The Memphis Appeal, being what was termed a rebel sheet, left Memphis and went to the pleasant little town of Grenada, Miss. The press and other machinery, its two new dresses of type and its working force accompanied it, and on the following Monday, June 9, 1862, The Memphis Appeal was once more issued, this time as an afternoon paper, bearing the Grenada date line. This issue contains a full account of the evacuation of Corinth some ten days previously, and also of the fall of Memphis and the destruction of the Confederate fleet. Exchanges are requested to direct their papers to Grenada for the future, and in an address To Our Readers, the editor says: The occupation of Memphis by the Federal forces has convinced us of the necessity of removing our office of publication to Grenada, Miss. In taking this step our principal motive has been to continue in a position wherein we may be able to render official service to the cause we advocate, hereafter as heretofore, and in accomplishing this, should we succeed, we will find our greatest reward. Our fate is indissolubly connected with that of the Confederacy. Our political action in the past is well understood. We cannot desert the one nor change as to the other. Our political ideas were not formed to be cast aside under any exigency that can possibly happen; and so long as two or three states...
