FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT: SERIOUS DEFICIENCIES IN STATES FINANCIAL SYSTEMS REQUIRE SUSTAINED ATTENTION: AFMD-93-9

Bibliogov. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 48 pages. Dimensions: 9.7in. x 7.4in. x 0.1in. GAO reviewed the Department of States accounting and financial management operations and systems, focusing on: (1) major weaknesses; (2) States efforts to correct known problems; and (3) actions that could improve the usefulness and relevance of States financial reports. GAO found that State: (1) lacked a centralized management entity to control financial operations, which led to duplication and cost inefficiencies; (2) consolidated many financial operations under the Chief Financial Officer (CFO); (3) planned to delegate control of overseas posts financial management operations to various bureaus that would operate under CFO-directed policies; (4) lacked fully qualified and trained financial management personnel and planned to supplement existing staff with trained specialists, provide training exercises and experience to personnel, and increase supervision; (5) financial systems lacked the capacity to handle all transactions, and in some cases were obsolete; (6) planned to standardize and integrate its primary and subsidiary accounting systems so that all data would be processed uniformly and validated based on standard criteria; and (7) developed a reasonable strategy to improve its financial operations and systems, which included faster online response time, streamlined processing capabilities, and better system linkages. GAO also found that: (1) States accounting systems did not provide a fully functional general ledger to support its financial statements, analysis, and oversight of financial operations; (2) managers did not receive adequate information on real property, personal property, and foreign nationals benefits to monitor their programs properly; and (3) States strategy for improving financial operations did not address its financial systems ability to provide managers with needed financial information as required by regulations. This item ships from La Vergne, TN. Paperback.
